

Some room for a view
2015

Dear Stefano,

I've been thinking about this a lot. I am not sure I am in a position to say much. At first I thought the best thing I could do would be to write a piece for your publication, but something about that didn't ring true. I am by no means an expert voice on such matters and to write an overly didactic essay seemed somehow disingenuous on my part. So I have shelved that idea for now.

Instead, I would like to offer an image, of which you are free to do with as you will. I see this picture every day; it is the view directly outside the window of my atelier.

I know it is a clichéd response. I imagine, photographing a tree is not an affective way to fight the good fight and move along the conversation. But, I see this little guy most days, fighting the rest of the world from a crack on a paved concrete roof; and cliché or not, this makes me smile.

Yours sincerely,

Steve
